Website color rules

Use navy text on bright blue. For white button labels, use action blue #1268B3. Use #526578 for secondary text on white. Keep bright blue out of small body copy on white.

Primary blue sampled approximately from the supplied reference. Hex values govern digital use.

One family. A consistent voice.

Open Sans keeps the identity close to your existing website.

Open Sans

Use Open Sans Bold (700) for headings, Semibold (600) for navigation and buttons, and Regular (400) for body copy.

“Sans” is not a confirmed font family here. Until the website font is identified, Open Sans is the default for all live text. The logo artwork stays fixed.

Writing style

Speak plainly and lead with the service and its benefit. Keep promises specific. Avoid inflated claims or guaranteed business results.

Keep the identity consistent.

Practical rules for your website, proposals and social posts.

01 Logo use

Use the blue symbol with the navy wordmark on white or ice blue. On navy, use a blue symbol with a white wordmark. Use a single-color white version when needed.

Leave clear space equal to at least one-quarter of the symbol height on all sides. Start at 160 px wide for the full digital logo and 24 px for the symbol; check legibility at the actual size.

Keep the proportions fixed. Do not stretch, rotate, outline, add shadows, recolor individual letters, or place the logo on busy imagery.

Suggested tagline: Clear systems. Better follow-through.

02 Website and layouts

Use an 8 px spacing rhythm, generous margins, and 8-12 px card corners. Keep headings left aligned. Use simple line icons with consistent stroke weight.

Primary buttons: action blue with white labels. Secondary buttons: white with a navy border and text. Provide visible keyboard focus, clear labels and a distinct hover state.

03 Brand positioning

Describe GHL Built as an independent service company working with HighLevel. Use your own logo as the primary brand. Mention the platform in service descriptions without implying official ownership or endorsement.
